

I am stunned that the FCC is ignoring the blatant plotical bias being shown by Sinclair Broadcasting. Sinclair's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election is a clear example of the dangers of media consolidation.

If this was a pro-Kerry group, the Republican comissioners would be in an uproar - and it would be taken care of immediately. Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge, and is obligated by law to serve the public interest.

Instead of politically biased psuedo-documentaries produced at "News Central" far away, it's more important that we see real people from our own communities and more substantive news about issues that matter.

Sinclair's actions show why we need to strengthen media ownership rules, not weaken them. They show why the license renewal process needs to involve more than a returned postcard. Thank you.
